Israeli Jets Attack Guerrilla, Military Bases Deep in Syria

TEL AVIV, Oct. 30.—Israel again denounced West Germany's release of three Clympic massacre terrorists and twice sent planes today to attack Arab guerrilla and an army base inside

In the first attack at 7:45 a.m., Israeli planes ranged as close as 45 miles from Damascus for the most concentrated air raid around the Syrian capital since the 1967 Middle East war. Israel said its planes encountered no resistance even though their flight paths took them directly over Da-

The Syrians hit back with a 30-minute artiflery bombardment against Israeli positions on a 12mile front on the occupied Golen Heights separating the two countries. One Israeli soldier was reported wounded by the fire.

Leter in the day, Israeli jets retaliating for the bombardment struck at a Syrian armored post and military warehouses at Tel Ralah, 120 miles north of Israel, near the Syrian-Lebanese border. In Damascus, a Syrian military spokesman said that 55 to 65 persons had been killed and 70 wounded in the first Israeli raid and that the second raid had caused many casualties among Syrian troops. "Under the guise of attacking guerrilla bases, four Israeli planes raided populated areas" near Damascus this morning, the spokesman said.

Ferced to Flee

"Our planes and air defense units intercepted the planes and forced them to flee. A number of citizens, including women and children, were killed or wounded," he added. In reply to the Israeli aggres-sion, our heavy artiflery directed its fire all along the front under cover from our air force," another Syrian military statement "They bit hard enemy postsettlements and missile positions and inflicted among them heavy casualties. Fire and smoke can still be seen at this time," it added. Palestinian guerrilla sources said that preliminary reports indicated that 15 guerrillas were billed and five wounded in the raids.

Israeli spokesmen said that the morning raids, which struck at four guerrilla bases, were not in direct retaliation for the Arab guerrilla hijacking of a West German airliner yesterday that won the release from Germany of the three Black September terrorists awaiting trial for their participation in the massacre or 11 Israel Olympic Games athletes in Munich last Sept. 5.

Britain Proposes Reforms Of Political Life in Ulster

By Bernard Weinraub

Britain offered proposals today for a sweeping overhaul of the Northern Ireland government that, among other things, would broaden the power of the Roman Catholic minority. There must be an assurance, built into any new structures, that there will be absolute fairness and equality of opportunity for all," said a British government document dealing with constitutional reform and reorganization in Ulster. The future administration of Northern Ireland must be seen to be completely evenhanded both in law and fact." The British document is the first official set of proposals to deal with a new Ulster govern-ment since Prime Minister Edward Heath imposed direct rule on the province in March. The British move suspended the provincial government and Parliament, ending 50 years of semi-autonomous rule by Ulster's Prot-

Although the document called The Future of Northern Ireland, a Paper for Discussion," was designed simply to list the options for political change in the province, it gives clear indications of the shape of Northern Ireland's new government. Assurances were offered to the Protestant majority as well as Cath-

To Protestants, the British of-fered the pledge that "Northern Ireland must and will remain part of the United Kingdom for as long as that is the wish of the majority of the people." The Protestants in Ulster, with a twothirds majority, have long feared a British "sellout," under which Northern Ireland would be swallowed up by the predominately Roman Catholic Irish Republic to the south

To Catholics in Northern Ireland, the British offered a new "assembly or authority" represent the minority as well as the majority. The Catholics in Uister have argued, in the past, that Protestants have maintained dominance in the province through control of housing, jobs and political boundaries.

Protestant anger also will be aroused by the new "regional authority," a concept that many Protestants consider a downgrading of the powers of the old Stormont Parliament. The document, however issues a veiled warning to Protestants that, so long as the majority wants to remain linked to Britain, the Westminster Parliament must remain firmly in charge. ### Brandt's Priority BONN, Oct. 30 (Reuters),-

Chancellor Willy Brandt told a parliamentary meeting today that his priority had been to do everything possible for the en-dangered West Germans and foreigners, who were a German responsibility on a Lufthansa plane.

In Munich meanwhile the Bavarian Justice Ministry described as pure invention charges of ill-treatment of Arab guerrillas in West German jails.

The three guerrillas freed yesterday were quoted as saying in Tripoll last night that they were forced to sleep naked on the floor of their cells. They also complained that they were beaten up and spat upon by their West German guards. They were treated according

Meanwhile the Communists overran a third base near these two.

Helicopter-borne troops of South Vietnam's 23d Division were lifted to Dak To district town, drove out the Communist defenders in a three-hour battle and raised their flag over the district headquarters, the spokesmen said. Another South Vietnamese unit was dropped off outside Tan Canh, a former regimental headquarters base three miles from Dak To. By dusk the infantrymen had driven within a mile of that district town, field spokesmen sald. The Communists meanwhile closed out the seventh month of their offensive by capturing the Dak Seang border ranger camp, 10 miles north of Dak To, the spokesmen said.

At least 100 of the 350 rangers reportedly escaped from the former U.S. Green Beret camp and re-established radio contact with government forces. Dak Seang is 30 miles north of Kontom and 290 northeast of Salgon.

The fall of Dak Seang leaves Dak Pek, 15 miles to the north, the sole major government position beyond the defensive perimeter of Kontum City. Military sources say that if Dak Pek falls, a cease-fire will leave the Communists in firm control of the triborder area where Laos, Cambodia and South Vietnam meet.

Communist troops over the weekend penetrated 36 hamlets near Saigon. They still held six that, as we didn't see any Syrian of them today, and Highway 1 remained closed at Cu Chi, 21 miles northwest of Salgon, military spokesmen said.

But if Mrs. Binh did nothing to indicate an intransigent Communist stand on the signing, she was as tough as ever on the Viet Cong's attitude toward the Saigon government of President Nguyen Van Thien.

Mrs. Binh inadvertently threw some light on what may be one of the questions still to be clarified between Washington and Hanoi when she said that "Thien should resign because he is an obstacle to a peaceful solution." This follows a recent statement by North Vietnamese Premier Pham Van Dong that Mr. Thieu would not long be a factor in any Saigon administration.

In the peace agreement that was published by Hanoi last Thursday and accepted by the United States as basically cor-rect, it is stated that "the two present administrations in South Vietnam will remain in exis-tence..." There is no reference to Mr. Thieu's abdication

Mrs. Binh also revealed what might be another problem when she said that following a ceasefire the United States would have to "bring pressure on Saigon" to assure the release of all political prisoners held by Saigon.

The political prisoners issue was one of the two points remaining to be settled following the Oct. 17 negotiating session between Mr. Kissinger and Xuan Thuy, chief Hanoi negotiator. Apparently it still has not been settled to Mrs. Binh's satisfaction. Despite this apparent reluctance of the Viet Cong to accept all that was negotiated by Hanol, Mrs. Binh said that the Viet Cong was "completely in agreewith the negotiations. hope the country is beginning to move from war to peace.

He said that "the choice is very clear, so let's use the next week to make that choice of the century, not for Mr. Veto. Let's make that choice for ourselves and for our country." Sen. McGovern said yesterday that if he is elected, he "will reserve the right to try to renegotiate" any agreement signed by the Nixon administration that would commit the United States to aiding the Thieu regime after the war.

"If an agreement is signed, obviously I am going to honor it," Sen McGovern said. "But I oppose the continuance of military aid to the Thieu regime in Saigon, and I would, with consultation with Congress, call for the termination of any further military aid to the Thieu regime

Sen. McGovern noted that by the time he would assume office, there might be "a different character to the government in Saigon.

Speaking on a television interview program, Sen. McGovern said that during his visit to Saigon in September, 1971, "Air. Thicu indicated to me that any kind of lessening of U.S. resolve in South Vietnam would prompt him to resign, so we may not have Mr. Thieu to deal with in January, 1973." He said be would "reconsider his objections if a coalition government were in power in Saigon when he came to office. At the same time, Sen. Mc-Govern's national security advisers released a position pape calling for sweeping reform of the armed services, which the paper called "one of our greatest casualties in Vietnam." Citing such "symptoms of malaise" as "fragging" (fragmen-tation grenade) attacks on officers and widespread use of drugs hy servicemen, the position paper called for an end to racial discrimination, and overhaul of military judicial procedures, and improved methods of treating and preventing drug abuse. Drug Traffic On the broadcast Sen McGov-ern said "high officials in the Thien government and in surrounding countries are responsible for the hard-drug traffic in this country that now represents about one-third of the heroin coming

Because of this and because of President Thieu's moves against his non-Communist political op-position, Sen. McGovern said, 'I don't want to see American tax dollars used indefinitely to back that kind of government." In Los Angeles, vice-presiden-ial candidate Sargent Shriver quoted former U.S. peace negotia-tor W. Averell Harriman as saying that the peace terms revealed last week are "no better substantially, no different substantially, than what we could have had four years ago when

Nixon came to power."

"The tragedy is," Mr. Shriver continued, "that when the President came into power he did not seek to get peace through nego-tiation. He sought peace through Vietnamization. And the fact is Vietnamization is just another word for prolonging the war."

Nixon to Sign Bill Raising Aid to Elderly

But Will Veto 2 More As Spurs to Inflation

By Robert Siner

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 (IHT). -President Nixon announced today that he would sign "with very great pleasure" a bill that will increase Social Security benefits for 8 million elderly, blind and disabled Americans by $5.3 billion a year.

The measure will raise payroll taxes to pay not only for its increased benefits but also for the costs of a 20 percent across-theboard increase in Social Security payments voted by Congress and signed by the President earlier this year.

Mr. Nixon also said he would veto, as too expensive, two other bills that would have henefited elderly Americans.

One would have extended the "Older Americans Act." which provides some medical services for the aged, and the other would have set up a government-financed institute to study the problems of the elderly.

Inflation Cited

The bills would have authorized the expenditure of $2.2 billion over three years and were rejected by Mr. Nixon on grounds that they would have fed inflation and compelled a general tax

In announcing he would sign the Social Security measure, Mr. Nixon said that it would actually help his administration stay within the $250-billion spending limit since the tax increases will start from this January, while the benefit increases will not take effect

This, the President said, would provide an extra $1 billion in 1973 that would be applied toward reducing the estimated $30-billion deficit in the 1973 budget.

The major thrust of the new law is to provide minimum henefits of $130 a month for individuals and $195 a month for couples through federal assumption of state welfare programs. The states would be permitted to supplement those figures.

No Welfare Reform

However, the hill contains nothing on the principal subject included when the President submitted it-reform of the welfare program for families with children. The House in acting on the legislation last year, approved Mr. Nixon's family assistance plan with its $2,400 guaranteed annual income for a family of four and its aid for the first time for the working poor. But the Senate did not go along.

With any new program for welfare families eliminoted, Congress turned the legislation chiefly into an expansion of Medicare and into the realization of a variety of Social Security benefits that had been promised for years.

Other provisions of the new law

 A widow can get 100 percent, rather than the present 82.5 percent, of her husband's Social Security entitlement. This will cost $1.1 billion a year and benefit 3.8 million people.

 The outside-income ceiling of $1.580, after which Social Security benefits start to be reduced, is increased to $2,100. This is expected to benefit 1.2 million people at a cost of about $856 million in 1974.

 Minimom payments on retirement will total $170 a month for individuals and $340 for a couple if they have paid Social Security taxes for 30 years.

 Disabled workers, widows and widowers between age 50 and 65 and people receiving Social Security disability payments be-fore reaching age 22 would be-come eligible for Medicare health insurance coverage. This extension of coverage that pays most of the hospital and doctor bills is the first to anyone under age 65 and will affect some 1.7 million people.

 People over 65 not covered by Social Security can buy Medicare coverage for $33 a · The cost of chiropractic se

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 (WP). -Time magazine reported yesterday that Dwight L. Chapin, President Nixon's appointments sec-rctary, had "admitted to FBI agents that he had hired" Donald H. Segretti, a California attorney, to disrupt Democratic political campaigns.

Time said: "Chapin had also told the FBI that Segretti's pay-ment was set by Nixon's personal attorney, California lawyer Her-

The magazine further reported that Justice Department sources say that "Kalmbach, too, admitted to FBI agents that the money he paid Segretti came from cash kept by the Committee for the Re-election of the President in the office of its finance chairman, Maurice H. Stans."

On Oct. 15, The Washington Post reported that Lawrence Young, 32, another California attorney, had said in a sworn statement that Mr. Segretti told him that "Dwight Chapin was a person I reported to in Washington." Mr Chapin has said through the White House press office that the report "is based on bearsay and is fundamentally inaccurate."

Previous Reports

Time and The Post have previously reported that Mr. Kalmbach paid Mr. Segretti for his work, and The New York Times has said that Mr. Segretti made at least six telephone calls to the White House and one to Mr. Chapir's home since March Time's account also said that "no hard evidence could be developed to support a charge by The Washington Post that H.R. Haldeman, the White House chief of staff, was one of those with control over a fund that paid for spying and disruption." The Post, citing accounts of grand jury testimony and information from federal investigators, reported last Wednesday that Mr. Haldeman was one of five highranking presidential associates authorized to approve paymen s from the fund.

Adm. Moorer's Daughter Escapes Navy Kidnapper

MAYPORT, Fla., Oct. 30 (UPI). A young sailor who wanted to get out of the U.S. Navy abducted at knifepoint yesterday the 22-year-old daughter of Rear Adm. J.P. Moorer, chief of the Navy's 6th Aircraft Carrier Division, police said today.

Lowell D. Howard, a 17-year-old sailor stationed at Mayport, was arrested later.

Officers said Miss Moorer suffered a one-inch cut on the side of her neck during the abduction, but was not seriously injured. Mayport public information of-

Athens Is Said To Delay Pact With 6th Fleet

ATHENS, Oct. 30 (AP).-The Greek government is delaying a technical agreement granting facilities to units of the U.S. Sixth Fleet until the presidential election is held, a source close to the government said today,

The Democratic candidate, Sen. George McGovern, has threatened to sever military and economic assistance to Greece if he is elected.

Talks on where the Sixth Fleet units will anchor or berth began in February, shortly after an agreement in principle was reached by both governments.

Governors Instructed To Set Food Prices

By Henry Giniger MADRID, Oct. 30 (NYT).-The Spanish government has taken emergency steps to stabilize the cost of living in the face of widespread discontent over inflation, The measures, to be in effect for six months, primarily affect sharply. Provincial governors have been authorized to fix retail prices from week to week on perishable goods while the Ministry of Commerce was ordered to import food under lowered tariffs.

food prices, which have risen

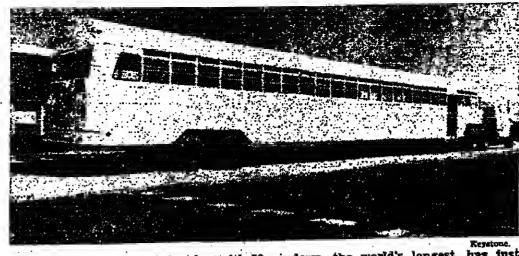

Like the rest of Western Europe. Spain has had to contend with varying degrees of inflation over the last three years. In re-cent months, it has become more acute and the accompanying chorus of complaints from press commentatore and labor and consumer groups has been a major source of embarrassment for the government.

Profit Curbs Fail

Attempts to control profit margins failed, and officials applied more drastic measures after the cost-of-living index rose by an average of about 1 percent in July, August and September. From January to September, it rose 5.5 percent and the index is expected to rise more quickly in the last three months of the year, particularly as the Christmas season approaches.

The accuracy of official estimates is widely disputed by Spanisb shoppers and by economists who assert that the inflation rate is even bigger than the government will acknowledge. A recent report by the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development put Spain toward the top of the list of inflation-ridden countries in the West.

Allende Aides Are Facing Impeachment

SANTIAGO Chile, Oct. 30.— Chile's opposition parties began impeachment action today against four of President Salvador Allende Gossens's cabinet ministers, charging violations of the constitution.

Congress, which can impeach ministers by a simple majority in the Chamber of Deputies and the Senate, is controlled by the opposition and already has ousted two of President Allende's interior ministers.

The officials accused are Jaime Suarez of the Interior Ministry; Carlos Matus, Economy: Anibal Palma, Education; and Jacques Chonchol, Agriculture,

The secretary of the opposition Christian Democratic party warned that similar action would be taken against other ministers who "overstep the constitution."

The censure vote was regarded as harassment of President Allende in the face of the "middle class" strike that hae cost the country $100 million during the last three weeks.

countries could take together. The formula for limiting tha increase in the money supplythe amount of money in circulation, which in an inflationary situation can force prices up as more money begins to run after fewer goods-does not contain an absolute limit.

The ministers have accepted a proposal from the EEC Commission that the increase should be variable for each member state, based on the growth of gross national product plus a huilt-in price rise factor. ...

The ministers then went on to discuss a formula for curbing public spending of member states, which would eliminate another major source of inflation.

Earlier, the ministers declared themselves optimistic of a successful outcome of their meeting fol-lowing the Paris summit earlier this month, which gave political impetus to a joint fight against rising prices.

French Finance Minister Valery Giscard d'Estaing said that he though a proposed 15 percent temporary cut on the communlty's common external tariff was "not essential."

Other Type of Inflation

Britain's Minister for Furopean Affairs Geoffrey Rippon, who is atanding in for Chancellor of the Exchequer Anthony Barber, un-derlined that Britain's problem was wage and cost inflation and not demand inflation as in most Common Market countries.

Any decisions today would, therefore, have to take account of Britain's special situation, he said, declaring that the proposed 15 percent tariff cut would be "a move in the right direction." The cut was proposed by ths EEC Executive Commission.

Mr. Barber, who was originally due to attend the meeting, was kept in London by the continuing Downing Street negotiations on prices and incomes. Other proposals before the ministers include an easing of quota restrictions on certain sensitive goods except textiles, and a commitment from the EEC to raise its cellings for manufactured goods from the developing countries by 15 percent. The commission also proposed moves in the agriculture sector which would enable the community to import more beef and potatoes to counter the current shortages and consequent higher prices. These proposals, favored by are opposed by West

Germany and Holland. During the debate, Mr. Rippon said that community action did not mean identity of action given the differing economic situations in different countries.

Mr. Giscard d'Estaing said that the enlarged community must concentrate on action to contain costs and curb demand.

According to Maoist theory. the essence of things is contradiction, and thus there are always ot least two available lines. Nothing can be achieved unless the effort is based on the correct line. A problem for peasants, as well as party functionaries, is that what is officially promulgated as Chairman Mao's line one year may a few years later be condemned as "revisionist." "leftist." "rightist" or "rightist under a leftist disguise."

A basic contradiction in agriculture has been between peasants' organized group labor for the commune and minor spare time sideline occupations bring-ing small individual profits, such as raising a few pigs or chickens, growing a few fruit trees, gathering acorns for commercial purposes or weaving bamboo articles. A few years ago Jenmin Jih Pao reported communes prohibited spare-time centipede catching because of "interference from swindlers of the Liu Shao-chi type." The period referred in is the Cultural Revolution of the late 1960s and "swindlers of the Lau Shao-chi type" usually means

This year, party committees resolved the contradiction between communal and individual centipede catching and fanned oot into the countryside to explain the correct policy.

The contradiction was resolved using communal "shock tactics" where centipedes abounded -such as under rocks in the forest, in raised paths between fields and in ditches-while peasants were allowed to catch centi-pedes, for individual profits in their spare time, in remote places where there are few centipedes.

Political functionaries were sent out to study the "ideological condition of the masses" and to report to party committees. Then, medical and commercial party functionaries went to the places where the centipedes were found, "vigorously explained the medical use and export of centipedes, introduced the hahits and law and activities of centipede catching and taught the techniques of

The Implications of Piracy

The two latest skyjackings give a frightening illustration of the range of aerial piracy. That of the Lufthansa plane was an act of political terrorism, intended to bring pressure on the West German government to free three persons accused of complicity in a political massacre. That of the Eastern Air Lines jet was committed by men fleeing under the cloud of charges of bank robbery and murder.

Each in its own way was complex in its origins, diverse in motivation, but each had two significant factors in common: Both jeopardized the lives (and in the case of the Eastern skyjacking, cost one life) of assorted individuals going about their legitimate business; both assumed a safe haven for the pirates.

Whether or not the pirates were wrong in this assumption in these particular cases, it is one of the grimmer facts of internstional life today that havens do exist; that there is no law which compels a nation to return those guilty of crimes against the global skyways, and not even a consensus that permits direct pressure on such nations to assist in maintaining public order in international traffic.

The United States has pointed this out, forcefully, to the current session of the General Assembly. The United Nations for a variety of reasons, has been laggard in taking up the issue and shows no signs of attempting to do so in any effective manner. This is neither good global morals nor good sense. Terror, whether political or strictly criminal, is a many-edged weapon. The abuse of the international mails for the dispatch of explosive devices is a case in point: Letter-bombs can be sent to anyone, unless everyone combines to outlaw their senders. The maintenance of lawful means of transportation is in the interest of all, not merely of those countries with the largest. commercial fleet. The fact that thus far the latter have heen the hardest hit by skyjackings should not blind those who harbor the pirates to their own reliance upon the ability of ships and planes to voyage about the world on their lawful occasions.

Revolution has been used to cover a multitude of sins, both of expression and repression in today's world. But revolution encouraged by a state against its neighbors Is war, at least as soon as It passes from words to deeds of violence. The right of asylum is preclous in a world divided into conflicting ideologies. But like all rights, it has practical as well as moral limitations. Until that is recognized, set down in international law by an international body, there is always the danger that the Israeli technique of retaliation will he accepted by other nations. And that would mean a long step backward for mankind.

Fruit and Light

The greatest of modern economists, Alfred Marshall, who dled half a century before there was a Nobel prize in economics, used to like to cite Francis Bacon's distinction between scientific works that bear fruit and those that shed light.

Marsball, who wanted above all to be considered a practical reformer, thought he belonged in the first category. Many of the professional colleagues of this year's two Nobel Prize winners in economics, Sir John Hicks of Oxford and Kenneth Arrow of Harvard, would put them in the second category as light-shedders rather than fruitsearers. Neither man has contributed any ievices that a husinessman or politician would recognize as practically applicable or athered any social reforms that history will emember.

But both scholars have filuminated the problems that concern not only fellow heoretical economists but other scholars und practical men as well—the problems of 10w complex economic systems move toward tability and growth; how alternative states if an economy, or policy actions on particnd how justice and social welfare can be ueasured and advanced. The miracle of mathematical and logical analyses of such highly abstract questions is that they ean subtly but profoundly move the thinking of other men toward practical results.

Professor Arrow himself welcomed the prize as encouragement to theoretical work in economics, which, as he noted, is often deprecated because of pressures for relevance and immediate action. 'T'm thoroughly in favor of action," he said, "but I think everything needs to be seen in broader relations that are not ohvious to the eye."

This is true of a host of practical problems ranging from unemployment and inflation to medical care and urban decay, where it is all too easy to pursue plausible objectives which have little to do with the really important issues. For instance, it does not help the urban poor if the middle classes are . brought back to the city by a process that simply drives the impoverished deeper into their ghettos. And economic growth may hurt those at the bottom of a society more than it helps them if the system of income distribution does not work right and there is no adequate "compensation principle."

As the "practical" Marshall's greatest work s better and what is worse; what justice theory, the theoretical works of Hicks and neans and should mean in a free society Arrow may yet bear fruit of great value to mankind.

McGovern and the Peace Paradox

By Anthony Lewis

LOS ANGELES—The White House announcement that peace is at hand in Vietnam should by all ordinary logic have destroyed whatever hopes George McGovern had in this election. So most commentators thoughtand so evidently did some of the McGovern staff.

But not George McGovern. At breakfast the morning after Henry Kissinger's dramatic news conference he was as serene as ever, as casually confident.

"I've always thought a settlement before the election would help me," he said. "It would tend to show people that I was right all along about the possibility of ending the war. "And it might help focus the voter's mind on which candidate can do better for him at home. re's a historic tendency in this country to believe that the Republicans get us out of wars and the Democrats get us out of trouble in our economy."

The McGovern candidacy benefitting from the prospect of peace in Vietnam, a Nixon peace? It sounds far too paradoxical to be true. And yet, and yet . . there are some curious signs.

The American Broadcasting Company has been polling a model sample of voters in Columbus, Ohio. The day after the news from the White House it checked back with those who had said they were undecided. A large number had now made np their minds-for McGovern.

Opportunism

Why? The ABC reporters found voter after voter saying the same thing: Mr. Nixon's sudden peace. as it seemed to them, was too opportunely timed to be an accident. He must have acted be-cause of the election. But if so, why had be not ended it long

To those who planned this war for years in the White House and the Pentagon, such judgments will sound unsophisticated; they do not take into account the precise terms of the proposed settlement, or the negotiations needed to obtain them. But McGovern never thought much of the sophistication that made America destroy Asian societies for no definable purpose; and way the war is ending evidently might convince some voters that be had a point.

McGovern could well be right in believing that his own credibility will be enhanced. When he said be would wind up America's role in the fighting in 90 days if elected President, and get the prisoners back in that time, many Americans were skeptical of such a timetable. Now here is Nixon saying he has just about arranged to do it all in 60 days.

Change in Emphasis

The other part of the optimistic McGovern thesis, that the apparent end of the war would bring voters back to economic issues more favorable to the Democratic party, also has some support. Samuel Lubell, the public-opinion analyst, reported that people he sampled right after the news were taking peace for granted already, seeing the election in more traditional terms and shifting toward McGovern.

I ran into an example of that reaction in Orange County, Calif., while McGovern was there—an odd one because it came from a Nixon supporter. Craig Starkey, "As the war ends," he told Orange County Democrats, "we a salesman from Phoenix, Ariz., said he still planned to vote that way, but he volunteered this

"I wouldn't have wanted to change presidents while we were in the middle of a war. But now that it is more or less over, they're more equal—lt's the do-mestic issues that matter."

Can any of this really make a difference in the result on Nov. 7? Is there any serious chance that a candidate as far down in the polls as George McGovern could be elected President? Some of the political correspondents watching the McGovern campaign—men of ample skepticism-have begun to think that the answer could be yes.

McGovern will use the week of the campaign to sound themes based on his own reading of public reaction to the hope of peace. He will say that he prays for an early conclusion of the settlement, whatever the political result.

He will question why it could not have come sooner. And now, he will say, it is time to look to peace—and the party that can handle its problems best.

need a government that is able to provide a decent, fulfilling job for every man and woman in this country who is able to work. We need a President ready to move from the waste of war to the works of peace."

He will tie his economic theme to a moral one: The corruption in the Nixon administration, the need for a new American vision, McGovern is convinced that the public is at last perceiving the gravity of the hugging, burglary and sabotage carried on by Republican agents in this election. In the last week Democratic leaders in a number of states have told him so, and certainly the corruption issue has broken heavily into the television news,

If in fact McGovern is seen to be coming on seriously in this final campaign stretch, tantalizing questions arise. Might Richard Nixon, the least visible candidate in modern history, come out swinging in his old style? And if he does, who will go to bed happy on the morning of Nov. 8?

Bernard Levin

From London:

A good many months ago (British justice is not as slow as American, but it is not as swift as lightning, either) Sir Gerald was visited by a police officer who bore with him a summons for prosecution against Sir Gerald ou a charge of dangerous driv-ing. Sir Gerald reacted as any-one who knows him would expect him to; with a great deal of noise and bluster. And allegations that the charge was based on an informer's tittle-tattle. But the prosecution went ahead.

Startling Defense

At the trial it was alleged that NAB 1 had been driven the wrong way round a traffic-roundabouta fairly serious action, if true. Sir Gerald's defense was a startling one; he did not deny that the car had been driven dangerously, but he swore that he had not been driving it. Indeed, he said he had been asleep at the time of the incident; the driver, he claimed, was his secretary. Called in evidence, she corroborated his claim. The prosecution agreed that the lady had been at the wheel shortly after the car had passed through the roundabout, but insisted that Sir Gerald and his secretary had changed places, so that she would take the rap.

Nabarro was found gullty, fined £250 and his license suspended for a year. The implication was unavoidable; the jury must have believed that both be and his secretary were lying on oath. Sir who is not a perjurer should be Gerald, stridently maintaining his innocence, appealed against only because he is wealthy enough the conviction, claiming that he to do so. Yet it seems that this had new witnesses who would swear that the secretary, and not he, had been at the wheel during the dangerous driving. The appeal court ordered a new trial. Last week, the new trial took

I ONDON-I do not know what place. Sir Gerald had a witness who did indeed swear that he had seen a lady at the wheel at the material time. Four presecution witnesses, however, swore tha they had seen Sir Gerald driv. ing. Sir Gerald gave evidence bombastic to the last, and main tained his story that he had been a passenger, and that his secretary had been driving. Then must presumably at this poin have been some turning of head in the court, as the secretary. evidence was awaited. It did no come; this time. Sir Gerald die not call her as a witness.

'Legal Advice'

On this omission the prosecution pounced with some vigor They insisted that the only reason she could have had for no appearing (she could not, after such a lapse of time, have been prosecuted for dangerous driving herself) was that she had lier at the first hearing, as bad Sh Gerald, but would now lie no longer. (All Sir Gerald has said on the subject is that she had not appeared "on legal advice.":

The judge summed up very strongly against Nabarro, and the jury was out for some two hours; long bours they must have beer for Sir Gerald Nabarro. For now there could be no more argument: if they found him guilty of dangerous driving, they would also be finding him guilty, by implication, of massive perjury.

They did not. At the end of the two hours, they returned a unanimous verdict of "not guilty," and Sir Gerald walked free, his reputation vindicated. Before he walked free, however, he had been awarded his costs in both jury trials and the appeal-a total of some £10,000. Perhaps there is a moral after all, and Sir Gerald has himself suggested what It might be, He is a wealthy man; he could afford a battery of lawyers, the best advice, the most extensive hcip. He is also a well-known man; the first case was reported far and wide, and it was from that puhlicity, it seems, that the defense witness was found. But what if be had been a poor man, an unknown man? What and not been believed? And if he had been unable to afferd the costs of the appeal? He vould today have been a man convicted of a serious plece of dangerous driving, and branded a perjurer into the bargain. Now no many [ ] able to maintain his innocence is indeed the situation. "It is the glory of the law of England." thundered a judge some years ago, "that it knows no difference between rich and poor."

FASHION: Living With the New London Look

By Hebe Dorsey

LONDON, Oct. 30 (IRT). London designers have manared to capture fun in fashion, when talents elsewhere seem to have turned to safe, conservative and often dull clothes,

This was the main story at a joint show by four top British designers at Les Ambassadeurs last weekend. The show was put together by Ernestine Carter. until recently women's editor of the Sunday Times (London) and an inspiration to British talents, many of whom she discovered The four designers were Bill Gibb, Sandra Rhodes, John Bates and, towering above all, Jean Muir, (who showed some of her clothes last week in Paris during marble-like leather and black the ready-to-wear salon).

While Miss Muir proceeded quietly with her perfect little dresses, the othere showed wild, kooky, ontrageous and sometimes totally unwearable styles - but with such a fresh, irreverent hand that they were like a long drink in the desert. Then, beyond the freakish delivery and tha mannequing hright carrot-red hair. African eye makeup and the 10inch platform soles there were also some sound styles.

It was a toss-up between Bill Gibb and Eandra Rhodes as to who produced the most outlandish clothes. Gibb with his Russian ballet costumes or Miss Rhodes with her mad, shredded look.

But Gibb also had interesting, seersucker blouses worn with very full, black and white checkerboard skirts. Those were bought by Roy Witlin, executive vice-president of Nan Duskin, Philadeiphia, not exactly everybody's idea of a swinging town. "We need that fun look," Mr. Witlin the big, bell-shaped sleeve which British designers have been doing for years and that is just creeping up in Paris now. Another interesting idea which should travel a long way was mixing leather with mat jersey or chiffon, another sign that British designers do not take their fashions seriously. Credit should also be given to the English designers for not showing one single shirtwaist dress.

Over the weekend, London was headquarters for the fourth ready-to-wear show at Grosvenor House under a single roof for the second time.

There were several aspects to the fair. First, the decidedly British approach taken by local manufacturers, not so much in-terested in fashion news as to finding salable goods for the home market. This accounted for the "normal" clothes suited to tha climate and taste of the mass British market.

Secondly, there were the knit houses, cashing in on the cashmere, angora and twin set locks which they have been doing all along but which is only now hitting fashion headlines. Then, for both domestic and export trade, a wide, inexpensive range junior sportswear, very swingy and still touched with a hangover of the old Mary Quant magic. This weekend also showed that London is now a force to be reckoned with. The presence of American buyers was a sign of serious interest. All the major stores were represented.

"For long," an American buyer said, "we couldn't live with the London look, Now, we can't liva restored to the first act and Ashton's pas de quatre is now

"Petroshka,"

By Oleg Kerensky

LONDON (IHT) For the past three weeks, the Royal Ballet has been appearing simultane-nucly at Covent Garden and at its original home, Sadler's Wells Theatre.

The main company, at the opera house, has not yet present-ed any new works but has revived "The Firebird" and again revised "Swan Lake."

The so-called New Group, which got its name because it is supposed to be concentrating largely nn new ballets, has presented two world premieres and the first London performance of "Siesta," (IHT, Aug. 1), and of Kenneth Macmillan's "Ballade," created on tour earlier in the year. But the staple items in the New Group repertoire are "Façade" (1931), "Les Rendezvous" (1933), "Pineapple Poll" (1951), "The Lady and tha (1954), and "The Grand Tour" (1971), only the last of which might conceivably still be called "new." I doubt if any of this season's new works will last

"Ballade," the creation of which prevented Macmillan accompanying the main section of his company to New York in April, is an extremely slight work, lasting 13 minutes. It consists of three boys flirting with one girl At first they sit around on chairs, reaching for each other's hands, and then they do some rather uninteresting dancing including some complex lifts which make tall Vyvyan Lorrayne look particularly ungainly. Finally two of the hoys walk off, leaving her alone with the third. The ballet docs not seem very well fitted to Fauré's music, and is forgotten almost as soon as it has been seen.

More Interesting

Ronald Hynd's "In a Summer Garden" is almost as light in content but a little more interesting in treatment. Hynd, who was a leading dancer in the Royal Ballet and is now in charge of the ballet in Munich, alsn uses Vyvyan Lorrayne as his heroine. But his ballet has Edwardian sets and costumes by Peter Docherty so that she is more flatteringly dressed. The decor, with light shimmering on various semitransparent gauses to suggest a country river bank, is the most interesting ingredient of the ballet, and is well matched to the two pastoral pieces by Delius which Hynd uses as accompani-The other premiere during the Sadler's Wells season was Macmillan's "The Poltroon," to music by Rudolf Maros, a contemporary Hungarian composer. Unlike "In a Summer Garden" and Macmillan's own most recent works, "The Poltroon" has a strong and elaborate plot. Instead of being wishy-washy and forgettable, ft is memorahly tasteless and unpleasant, with choreography which would seem promising at a studio workshop but which nowhere approaches what one would expect from the artistic director of the Royal Ballet.

The "Pagliacci" type plot concerus a negroid, aggressive Harlequin and a promiscuous Columbine who finally get murdered when the downtrodden Pierrot turns aggressive and psychopathic. These three characters are the caricatures of the blacksmoor, the

IOS Control Sold to Cuban, Spanish Team

NASSAU, the Bahamas Oct. 30 (AP-DJ). - Two former associates of Robert L. Vesco have sold their controlling interest in IOS Ltd.

Milton F. Meissner, who resigned as IOS president with the sale, said the price was $5.7 million cash.

The seller was Kilmorey In-vestments Ltd., which was organized earlier this year to acquire the 38 percent interest in IOS owned by International Controls Corp., a U.S. electronics concern. The owners of Kilmorey at the time of the purchase in April were Ulrich J. Strickler an IOS consultant since 1970 and a director since 1971, who held a 40 percent share in Kilmorey; Mr. Meissner, an IOS consultant since 1970 and president since September, 1971, with a 20 percent share; Stanley Graze, an IOS investment manager, a 20 percent interest, and Norman Leblanc, a former IOS executive vice-president, also a 20 percent share of Kilmorey. Mr. Leblanc and Mr. Graze subsequently sold their Kilmorey interests to Mr. Strickler. Mr. Vesco has since severed all connections with IOS and also has resigned as chairman of International Controls following an 18-month inquiry by the Securities and Exchange Commission to determine if he was overstepping an earlier consent decree restricting IOS links with the Americans.

Mr. Meismer said the new investors' group taking over IOS is headed by Rafael Diaz-Balart, a Cuban who currently lives in Madrid, where he operates insurance and other interests. He becomes IOS president.

Prince Gonzalo de Borbon, a member of Spain's royal family who also has insurance ties, was named chairman and Baron de Gotor, a Spanish banker, was named vice-chairman, Alberto I. Alvarez, a former Cuban ambassador to the United Nations and currently a director was named executive vice-pres-ident.

According to Mr. Meissner, IOS's current assets consist mainly of an 80 percent interest in Transglobal Pinancial Services Ltd. a mutual fund management company.

'Banner Year' For Economy

Labels 1972 a Year Of 'Solid Achievement'

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 (WP). -The Commerce Department predicts that 1973 will be a "banner year" in a new report on the state of the economy and industry projections for 1973. Issued for the first time, the the Economy," was said to be a "follow-up" to the annual "U.S. Industrial Outlook," issued each

The report states that 1972 "as a whole will be one of solid economic achievement" which will be a "springboard for more economic growth in 1973."

For 1972, it suggested that the goal of increasing the gross na-tional product by $100 billion, with 6 percent real growth, will "probably" be exceeded. "Reduc-ing inflation to a rate of 2 to 3 percent by year-end will also achieved" and there is "a good chance that unemployment will of 5 percent by the end of the

It said the economy would enter 1973 in a strongly rising trend, but with enough alack in capacity utilization to avoid major production bottlenecks. Among the reasons cited by the department for the optimistic 1973 forecast were:

· A sustained rise in the composite index of leading indicators which indicates that "the present npswing in the economy is a major expansion that will continue at least through 1973."

· A very low current inventorysales ratio, with inventories likely to increase as sales continue

• Improvement in the balance of trade. · An increasing capital spending outlook as sales increase. · A favorable ontlook in credit markets with enough funds to finance business expansion and large consumer purchases.

"In all, it should be a banner year for the U.S. economy," the report concludes. Machine Tool Orders

Meantime, new orders in the machine tool industry in September totaled $139 million, the highest monthly total since June of 1969, the National Machine Tool Builders' Association said.
Machine tool orders, viewed as an important precursor of the capital spending plans of businessmen, were up 28 percent from August and were an 85 percent Total third-quarter orders showed an increase over both the first and second quarters.

The cumulative total for the first nine months of the year was $947.6 million, or 53 percent higher than the first nine months

FINANCIAL NEWS AND NOTES

Squibb to Sell Beech-Nut Beverages

Squibb Corp. has agreed in principle to sell its Beech-Nut subsidiary's beverage operations to J. Lyons & Co. of Britain for about $55 million. Lyons also would assume certain liabilities under the agreement, which is subject to adjustment according to changes in profitability by the closing date. The transaction also is subject to ex-ecution of a mutually satisfactory agreement and to approval by the boards of directors of both companies. The businesses to be sold are Tetley Tea and Martinson, Beech-Nut and Bustelo coffees in the United States; Tetley Tes Co. in Britain, and Robert Timms of Australia

Rheingold Opposes Pepsico Offer

Asserting that the best interests of Rheingold Corp. often conflict sharply with those of Pepsico Inc., the directors and officers of Rheingold say they will seek a court injunction to halt Pepsico's tender offer for a controlling L6 million shares of Rheingold at $22 each. Besides suing for an injunction against the offer, the beer and soft-drink concern said it would file suit charging that Pensico had violated an agreement to sell Pensi-Cols concentrate at fixed prices to Rheingold's Pepsi-Cola bottling franchise in Puerto Rico. It is also seeking an injunction against the offer on the ground "of inadequate disclosure of material facts by Persico," and is studying the anti-trust implications of the proposal. Rheingold is the largest independent franchised bottler of

U.S. Cigarette Consumption Up

Americans apparently will light up more cigarettes this year than in 1971. A preliminary esti-mate of domestic consumption runs to 554,200 million units, for a 3.1 percent gain. Brown & Williamson and Philip Morris are outpacing the industry. B&W should show an increase of around 5.6 percent, boosting it to the No.3 position in the industry. Philip Morris, which ranks secand behind R.J. Reynolds, should enjoy a gain of around 13.7 percent. Benson & Hedges 100s moved ahead of Winston to lead the 100-millimeter division. Industry-wide, 100-millimeter units now account for over 21 percent of the total. American Brands, which has been losing ground, is moderating its decline. Lorillard's unit sales for the year were flat, owing to the downturn in its Kent brand.

Gulf & Western Sees Record Earnings

Gulf & Western Industries expects first quarter net income on Oct. 31 to be a record, and plaus redeployment of certain manufacturing assets The initial quarter income is expected to be about $20 million, or 95 cents a share, against $16.9 million, or $1 cents a share, a year ago. The company also expects quarterly and fiscal year earnings gains of at least 15 percent.

Abbott Develops Blood Test

A new weapon against one form of hepatitis, a severely debilitating liver disease, is creating a stir in the U.S. medical community. Among other things, it promises to be a several-million-dollar boon for the company that developed it, Abbott Laboratories, though other pharmaceutical companies are working hard to catch up. It also is generating considerable controversy that centers on its price and effectiveness and on what some medical scientists see as an endorsement of it by the Food and Drug Administration (FDA). The weapon is a more effective test for determining if blood given in a transfusion is likely to cause serum bepatitis. The new test was approved by the FDA July 28, and Abbott began marketing it Aug. 4. At the time, the FDA said the test "is approximately 100 times more sensitive than exist-ing procedures," and it added that "the introduc-tion of this technique into general use should more than double the detection of blood plasma or serum units harboring hepatitis virus."

whole, as had been predicted, continoed its quarter-by-quarter advance in the three months ended in September, and the outlook for the remainder of the year is more of the same.

A tabulation of third-quarter earnings and interviews with corporate executives and securi-ties analysts throughout the country show that after-tax profits of 570 companies rose 15.9 percent in the third quarter from the like period in 1971,

Unlike the previous quarter, General Motors' results hurt, rather than helped, the overall picture. But considerable help came from Ford and Chrysler. whose earnings increased five-

Analysts agree that the auto makers' fourth-quarter earnings will be relatively strong. But they question whether or when the companies will be able to raise prices, by how much, and what impact it will have on profits. There is a new concern that the current rash of strikes against GM plants over work standards may reach the point where the company's output and earnings are affected The fourth-quarter outlook is excellent; industry output is targeted at 8.9 percent shead of the comparable period last year. This year's third-cuarter pace received considerable impetus from the steel industry-not surprising in view of the fact that the like period last year was one of the industry's worst. In some cases, however, the gains were not as large as had been hoped for. While sheet-steel producers DJ).-U.S. industry taken as a ever, are in large part predicated on price increases. It appears that the companies can make a good case with Washington for price boosts and will likely be moving toward raising prices on at least some major product lines by early 1973.

A summary of the outlook for some other major industries follows. OIL: After skidding badly in the first half, earnings generally leveled off in the third quarter. Further recovery is likely in the coming quarter and year. Problems persist - particularly for the internationals whose taxes and royalties on foreign. production continue to climb. However, operations of many companies are reaching record levels as their markets for crude cil, natural gas and petroleum products expand worldwide. Furthermore, prices are strer ing on such products as gasoline and home beating oils.

AEROSPACE: The industry continued to gradually gain in the third quarter, and further gains are expected in the fourth Increases are being quarter. attributed largely to past beltlightening, cost-reduction moves that have offset a continued sluggish sales base.

CHEMICALS: Strong earnings gains were achieved during the quarter and industry executives expect the upward trend to continue into 1973. They attribute the gains to higher volume, ben-eficial results from the investment tax credit and the fact that foreign sales showed herty increases over the previous year. Continuing inflation, executives say, is a major concern, (energy and transportation costs have had especially sharp rises). And some companies say they are wary of possible government-forced rollbacks in price increases in order to keep profit margins within quarter results were burt by a strike in the copper industry, this year's period looked strong by comparison. Demand. however, seems to be strengthen-Predictions are clouded by the uncertainty of conditions abroad -particularly in Chile. Political unrest in Chile (which expropriated U.S.-owned copper properties in July 1971) has not hampered mining of the country's copper. However, legal efforts have been launched by Kennecott Copper to block Chilean shipments; and any significant interruption of these supplies could erase the worldwide surplus and drive prices hig Berring thi occurrence, analysis do not expect any price increase-and an attendant upsurge in industry per-formance—until early 1973.

MACHINE TOOLS: Companies have been able to expand production to some extent in the last few months, and fourth-quarter results are expected to be better than a year ago. Nevertheless, most machine tool builders will continue to hover around the break-even point for this year's second half.

ELECTRONICS: Most electrical and electronic manufacturers continued to report rising earnings and are forecasting further strong growth in the fourth quarter and the coming year. Most of the growth is being registered by consumer products, especially major appliances, ap-paratus for electric utilities, and some electronic components.

How much business can you do will sweden?

The holiday cottages lining the Swedish coast are clear evidence of Swedish purchasing power one:

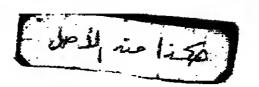

family in two owns a second home.

Car ownership and telephone density are the highest in Europe, TV ownership the highest in the world. And Swedes spend more money or holiday travel than anyone else.

Industry is strong, ino—and sells 10 h of its production abroad. Altogether, exports account for 20 h of Sweden's GNP. Which means in turn, that the rate of imports is among the highest in the

With only 6.2% of the world's population. Sweden in fact accounts for 20% of international

New York tournament provided a lesson in rejecting finesses. The key to the offensive pl-y was to give up the normal play in hearts and lead from the closed hand instead of the dummy at the second trick. And to give up the club finesse, which is no hardship, because two tricks can be made in any event.

Four spades was the universal contract, usually reached as shown in the diagram. The best lead for West is certainly a trump—partly to cut down dummy's ruffing prospects, and partly in the interests of safety. Any other lead is liable to help the declarer, and would have done as the cards

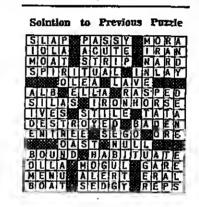

South could count a sure loser in each red suit, and could there-fore face the loss of a club trick equanimity. His obvious tricks consisted of five trumps, a heart and two clubs for a total of eight. To bring the total to ten, it was necessary to achieve two ruffs in the dummy. This

One of the deals in a recent might not seem difficult, but several declarers lost their way. One common error was to draw three rounds of trumps, Another was to win the first trick with the spade ace in dummy in order to attack hearts or clubs. The heart play was the better idea but was still liable to fail. West could capture the king or queen with the ace and lead a second trump. South could win and play hearts ruffing the third round. But when he then led a club to the ace and played a fourth heart West could ruff with the ten. Dummy could discard the club jack, but the lead of the diamond ten to the ace and a club shift from East would cook declarer's goose.

The correct play was to win the first trick in hand, and lead the heart king. West would win and play a second trump, taken again in the closed hand. After cashing the heart queen and ruffing a heart South could enter his hand with a small club to the ace. The last heart could safely be ruffed in dummy, because the ace still controlled West's ten. Once the two ruffs were achieved, it was an easy matter to make ten tricks.

THE FUR-LINED MOUSETRAP

By C. Northcote Parkinson. Leviathan House Ltd. (Lond. and New York). 109 pp. £2.25. $5.75.

Reviewed by Irving Marder

THE Selgneur of Anneville and at the expense of somethic Mauxmarquis—a British his—else . . . torian, scholar, teacher, painter. lecturer, soldier, journalist and businessman who lives in Guernsey and is perhaps best known as a humorist—has published a new book, "The Fur-Lined Mousetrap" (Leviathan House Ltd., London and New York). This latest work by the inventor of the world-famous Parkinson's Law demonstrates (in the melancholy view of one reader) the continued viability of an older law: the Law of Diminishing Returns.

It is not that "The Fur-Lined Mousetrap" isn't funny. But it isn't funny enough or trenchant enough to meet the high standard that C. Northcote Parkinson has set for himself, and that his millions of readers, their sides splitting, have come to expect. Furthermore, it's not much book for the money, $5.75, or £2.25, for 109 pages of material thatas the author makes quite clear in his preface—consists almost entirely of reworked lectures, speeches, and magazine articles. However, given those reservations. "The Fur-Lined Mousetrap" has its moments, in which the eminent Lew-giver is very much himself, a voice well worth listening to.

"My master, as an essayist." he says in the preface. "was the late Mr. G. K. Chesterton, whose equal I could never claim to be. I should be proud, however, if any writing of mine had tended to keep alive the author's freedom to comment on the issues of the day."

Parkinson's concern, as always, even when he is speaking in his stage voice as Court Jester of the Corporate Society, is with the quality of contemporary life and of literature. "In which of our contemporaries," he asks, "can we see a Dickens, a Trollope, a Reade or an H. G. Wells? What has present-day London to offer us? We have had dramatists with their heads in the kitchen sink if not in the gas oven. There are the young authors who look back in anger, their indignation sometimes outlasting their youth . . ."

Is that a bad thing, one might ask of the 63-year-old anthor? But let us stay with him for a while as he explores the device of his title—the fur-lined mousetrap:

"... If such a trap should exist today, its framework would con-sist of economic realities and it would be baited with the promise of social security. A very little reflection must lead us, more-over, to the conclusion that such a trap is among those already on the market . . Have we in fact built Jerusalem in England's mean unpleasant land? Our ex-perience of life has tended to prove that everything has its We have therefore the uneasy feeling that present comfort must have been purchased may be comfortable but the b This rueful note is cheract istic of the new book, and a ! amount of it is concerned w the American scene. Parkins who taught at Harvard as a vi: ing lecturer as far back as 15 has made many return visits:

But Parkinson, presumably calling that he is a humorist, a includes in his new book a li chapter called "On Humor," which he declares, without ru ning any serious risk of co tradiction, that "Britain's co tribution to the civilized was must include the British set of humor . . ." He goes on say that "the jokes available us are basically four in numbe first in the race, said be probably would appeal to the courts.

"I'm not a lawyer, of course, but it's my understanding of the Kentucky law in 1968 that the horse that crossed the finish line first was the winner forever and a day," Fuller said by tele-phone from Boston.

"This decision seems to me to be a complete reversal of the ruling issued by the former [racing] commission," he added. Ricgal Medication

Traces of an illegal medication were found in Dancer's Image's urine after the race at Churchill Downs, Louisville.

After a hearing, track stewards ordered first-prize money given to Forward Pass and the state commission upbeld that ruling. Fuller then took the matter to court.

He won a decision at the zircuit-court lavel, but that was overturned by the State Court of Appeals earlier this year. The $122,600, plus about $15,000 in interest, has been delivered to Calumet's owner, Mrs. Gene Markey.

Churchill Downs then aske the commission—which since has changed membership under a new state administration—to decide who should have the $5,000 gold cup that goes to the winner.

New Ruling

In a tersely written ruling the commission held that the trophy "shall be awarded to Calumet Farm, the owner of Forward Pass. and that the horse Forward Pass shall hereafter be considered tha winner of the 1968 Kentucky Derby in all respects and for all intents and purposea."

Kentucky racing rules in 1968 made no provision for disqualification of a horse with illegal medication in its system, but provided only for purse redistribution. The rules have been changed and horses now found with such medication can be disqualified. "According to the law in 1968."

Fuller said. "I felt I was entitled to both the trophy and the mon ey but when they [the courts] ruled against me on the money, I felt it was within their turis

"This ruling, however, seems to me to be directly contrary to the law in 1968," Fuller added.

Wadkins Nips Palmer for 1st Golf Triumph ·LAS VEGAS, Oct. 30 (UPI).-

Lanny Wadkins won his first pro golf tournament when he shot a 69 yesterday for a 72-bole total of 273, 11-under par, to beat charging Arnold Palmer by one shot in the $135,000 Sahara Invitational.

Wadkins, 22, who dropped out of Wake Forest University after three years and turned pro last fall, trailed Canada's George Knudson by three strokes at the start of the last round, Knudson faded with 76 for a 277 total.

Jack Nicklaus carded a final 68 for a total of 276. He took a double-bogey 7 on the 18th hole when he was out of bounds with his drive and hit a second one into a lake

Palmer, 43, who hasn't won a tournament in 15 months, shot a final-round 69 for a 72-hole total of 274. Gay Brewer, the former Masters champion, had a final 68 which gave him a total of 275 and a third-place tie with Hale Irwin, who had 69.

The $27,000 witner's purse was Wadkins's biggest check and increased his earnings for the year to $114.501.

Wadkins had a two-stroke edge after 15 holes, but he bogeyed No. 16 with a 4 and his margin was cut. He finished in the threesome just ahead of Palmer, who had a chance for a birdle on the last hole which would have tied him with Wadkins.

Palmer's second shot was on the fringe of the green, about 70 feet from the cup. His chip shot was off the mark and left him with a birdle putt of about 14 feet, which be missed.

Two Goals Give Bucyk 400 for NHL Career

Johnny Bucyk became the eighth player in National Hockey League history to score 400 career goals last night as he drilled in two while the defending Stanley Cup champion Boston Bruins routed the expansion New York Islanders, 9-1, at Boston.

But Bucyk wasn't talking much about his own goals. Instead, he was concerned about the reaction of the Boston fans to the team's slow start and, in particular, to their heckling of goalia Ed Johnston. What set him off was the booing that greeted Johnston when he replaced injured Ross Brooks midway through the third period. Johnston had been in the nets for all five early-season losses suffered by the Bruins.

"You didn't bear the boos when he was helping us win the Stenley Cup last year," Bucyk said. "What these people don't realize is that this is the guy we need more than anybody else. If we're going to go anywhere, he's got to do it."

'Just Great'

Bucyk said it was "just great" to score the 400th goal at home. Every other time Ive had a big one it was on the road, but this time it came at home. It's just great."

More important, he said, "all of a sudden this club started to play hockey. We've had a couple of good games this year and we weren't really as bad as we looked at times."

Bucyk scored his 399th goal during the Bruins' four-goal second period that snapped a 1-1 The 400th came from just outside the crease with 15:00 gone in the final period and the entire Boston team poured onto the ice to congratulate Bucyk.

Almost lost in the shuffle was a "hat trick" by rookie Greg Sheppard, who was called up by the Bruins Saturday from their top farm club, the Boston Braves of the American Hockey League. Sheppard scored once in the opening period and twice in the

Rangers 7, Black Hawks 1

Jean Ratelle scored two goals and linemate Rod Gilbert added four assists as the New York Rangers stretched their unbeaten string to six games with a 7-1 home rout of Chicago. The Rangers raced off to a four-goal lead in the first period. An unassisted goal by Chico Maki at 7:09 of the final period foiled the bid of Gilles Villemure to halt the longest streak without being shut out in NBL history. The Black Hawks have not been blanked in 204 straight games-178 regular-season contests and 26 playoff encounters.

A Plan to End All Wars

comes to an agonizing, screeching halt, great miods are nt work in this country trying to figure out a way we can avoid getting ourselves into such a mess azain. Many solutions ed. My favorite Lansing, M.chi-have been offeris the Haak Plan, suggested by Leo Haak of East

Mr. Haak told Buchwald nic. "The reason the war lasted so loog was that only the young people in this country were truly involved in Victnam. While the rest of the country grew rich and fat, this small minority of the population, with no political clout, were shipped off to Indocbina to hold hack Communist aggressioo. This made it rather easy for the rest of the Americans to show no urgency to end the war.'

what do you propose?" The Haak plan provides that if you draft young men to fight a future war, then you must also draft the money of the men too old to go, to pay for it." "How would it work?"

"That's true." I said, "But

When a man became 40 years old, he would register for a wealth draft. His peak earning years are from 40 to 53, just as the peak physical years of a Young man are 18 to 28. A lottery would be held and the man would be assigned a number according to his birthday. Those with los numbers would have to turn over all their money to the government to finance the war, "Those with high numbers

Experts Are Invited

To See Work on 'Pietà' VATICAN CITY, Oct. 30 :Reuters: .- Vatienn officials have cecided to invite art experts from abroad to see the restoration work being carried out on Michelangelo's "Picta" statue.

The "Piela," which shows the Virgin Mary and the dead Christ across her knees, was severely demaged in a hammer attack last May by Hungarian-born Anstralian Laszlo Toth, who is in jail awaiting a decision on whether be should face trial.

WASHINGTON. - As the war could go about their lives just as young men with high draft numbers go about their husiness without fear of being called up."

"Would you have draft boards?"

I asked "Yes," Haak replied. "They would be composed of young men under the age of 26."

"Why young men?" I asked. "Well, you have older men sending off young men to die in a war, so you should have young men deciding who mus. give their money to pay for it. The draft board could give exemptions in hardship cases and deal with conscientious objectors."

"By conscientious objectors you mean those who refuse to give money to a war because it's against their religion?"

Yes, exactly. If a man can prove he is a serious conscientious objector, we would let him donate his wealth to a bospital or an educational institution." "What about men over 40 who would flee to Canada to avoid having their money drafted?" "The Haak plan does not provide for amnesty. Wa think it's the patriotic duty of every American to proudly serve his country, if not with his body, then with his fortune."

"How much of his fortune?"
"Everything." Haak said.
"When we draft young men we ask them to give up everything. don't we?" * * *

"It sounds like a crazy plan."

"No crazier than what we've been doing for 10 years. Had the Haak plan been in effect when we first got into Vletnam, the howls of the money draftees would have been heard from Maine to California. Picture, if you will, millions of well-dressed men in their forties descending Washington demanding the President and Congress end the war. How long do you think any politician could survive if the country were drafting the entire wealth of its middle-aged citizens?" "Not very long," I admitted. Hank said, "Sending young people off to an undeclared war is a thing people don't like but will put up with. But drafting the fortunes of the men who stay at home is something nobody in this country will tolerate for IRVING MARDER

The Waterbed Finally Steams Up the Seine

DARIS (IHT).—The French—who have always regarded water with distrust-have now conceded that it may after all have a place in the sensory scheme of things. The waterbed which began its eastward journey in California, has traversed the continent, drifted across the Atlantic and finally steamed up the Seine. It took at least 10 years to get here, but how fast can a hed he expected to travel?

On the other hand, the tradiness of its arrival is a little surprising when you consider that, with the possible exception of the table, no item of furniture has played so central a role in the national consciousness. The warmth of its reception in France may, in fact, reflect a feeling of having been caught Said a six-column headline in the Paris dally napping Said a six-column headline in the Paris Gany L'Aurore: "Le Waterbed (mourant, apaisant, erotisant, relazant, amusant . . .) à la Conquete de Paris."

L'Aurore's palpitating tribute points out that such local swingers as the bedroom-eyed troubadour Enrico Macias invested in an "aquarium-pour-réver" some time back. But the paper says it is only recently that the waterbed in France has been priced within reach of the average customer-'Trom 1,000 francs to 1,800 francs," or from around $200 to around $360. (A recent issue of the New York weekly Village Voice, which was once full of waterbed ads, contains three, in which the price of a waterbed complete with heater and thermostat averages around $100. Though who, one might ask, wants to sleep on New York water?)

Among the companies riding the tide of the waterbed's conquest of France is the Rue Saint-Honore establishment of Midilit, also known as La Bouchlit. This firm says its waterbeds cost "the same price as a conventional bed" in France and "even less than" a conventional bed "of comparable quality." In France and Europe as a whole "no wellresearched, highly sophisticated edition such as ours has ever appeared," said Michael F. Worthington, proprietor of La

Bouchlit. Thus there are some people aware of the basic idea but few knowledgeable of its potential as a serious bed." And here, of course, Mr. Worthington is getting down to the nub: How serious is his bed? In Boughlit, anticipating such questions, has prepared a question-and-answer brochure for the benefit of potential customers. Q.-All that water is pretty heavy. Would my floor be strong enough to support a waterbed? A-A waterbed exerts about the same pressure on the floor as a refrigerator. Your kitchen is still

The potential customer then puts the most obvious question: What if it leaks? A.—It's guaranteed for five years against any malfunction. The vinyl is very tough and even a cigarette wouldn't burn through it, though we don't advise you to try this. (On the whole, a crafty answer?) .

Q.-How about that slight rocking movement-is there any risk of sea-sickness? A .- The only ones who say that are those who haven't slept in our bed

Le Bouchlit's brochure, warming to its subject, then invites the tentative waterbed customer to "stretch out." Note, it says, that after the water's movement has subsided, "the surface of contact between the mattress and you is much larger than is the case with a conventional mattress; the weight of your body is more evenly distributed . . . your circulation is facilitated." And this results in "the elmination of restless sleep and fatigue

Among the nuggets of information contained in the brochure there is at least one notable omission: What do you do if, in the dead of winter, an electricity strike (far from uncommon in France) leaves you floating on ice water? That, admittedly, is looking on the black side, but it cannot be denied that there is a potential maintenance problem. Howin mid-August, say, when even La Bouchlit might reasonably be on vacation—would you go about finding a plumber, or maybe a diver, to fix your bed?

European Parliament, Council Have Little Power or Impact

bourg 6.

By Clyde H. Farnsworth

STRASBOURG, France, Oct. 30 (NYT).-Armand Jehle, a 21year-old hiology student at Strasbourg University, says that the only thing he knows about the European Parliament and the Council of Europe is that there seem to be a lot of policemen around their joint assembly building when the meetings are on.

As with many Alsatians, Armand Jehle has both French and German ancestry. During 50 of the last 100 years Strasbourg was German, but what interests Armand Jehle today is not history, and certainly not the European Parliament, but the fact that across the Rhine bridge wages are higher.

Armand Jehle was only seven when Strasbourg, because of its unique relationship with France and Germany, was chosen as the parliamentary capital of the European Common Market.

He hadn't even been born when the call of Winston Churchill for a United States of Europe brought statesmen here in 1948 to set up a consultative assembly that, in the idealism of the times, was supposed to be the foundation of a Western European government

Not Much to Do

The parliament, which was set up here when the Common Market was founded, has not had much to do. Similarly, that earlier consultative assembly of what is known as the Council of Europa is not exactly overworked.

To sense this, all you have to do is to be at the assembly building in Strasbourg, where about 700 Council of Europe hureaucrats work any day between 12:30 and 2:30 p.m. There is little activity.

To he fair, however, the council sembly, is quietly performing some useful services in social, cultural and health activities and in buman

Delegates to the European Parliament come from and are chosen by their national parliaments. France. West Germany and Italy each send 26 deputies to Strasbourg. Belgium and the Netherlands 14 each and Luxem-

The Dutch want to have direct elections to the European Parliament. This would mean political hattles to represent a constituency before the Strasbourg assembly, and would overnight transform that parliament into a European political force.

The other nations are not accepting this, and they probably will not for at least a decade, says John Priestman, a former British diplomat who is now clerk of the Council of Europe's as-which has a secretariat of more than 1,000 people, has been given very little real power. Essentially it acts as a debating society, but few pay much attention to what is said here.

Its main functions are to scrutinize the budgets of Common Market institutions-without having any say itself in those budgets and to confront commissioners with considerably awkward questions.

By a two-thirds vote it can dismiss the commissioners of the Common Market, the top politically appointed executive officers, but the parliament has no say in appointing new commissioners. As the result of a decision mada at the end of 1969, the European Parliament was given a small voice in determining the Common Market's budget after 1975. This is a "glimmer of hope" for the future, Mr. Priestman said.
